Definitions of Type of Requirement
Stand-alone course:	There is a PFL required course (under such titles as Personal Financial Literacy; Consumer Math; Life Skills; Family and Finance; Career Exploration, etc.).
Choice of courses:	If PFL course is among a small selection set that is required (example, student must complete one of three courses which includes PFL as one of the choices).

Embedded: PFL is embedded in a required course (example, Economics, Family and Consumer Education, Academic and Career Planning, etc). Note: A required course must explicitly state in its course description that it includes PFL in order to be counted.

NOTE: This information was compiled by Department of Financial Institutions staff through a review of all Wisconsin school district websites during the spring of 2017.
